Here is an image of someone wearing a face mask

original image
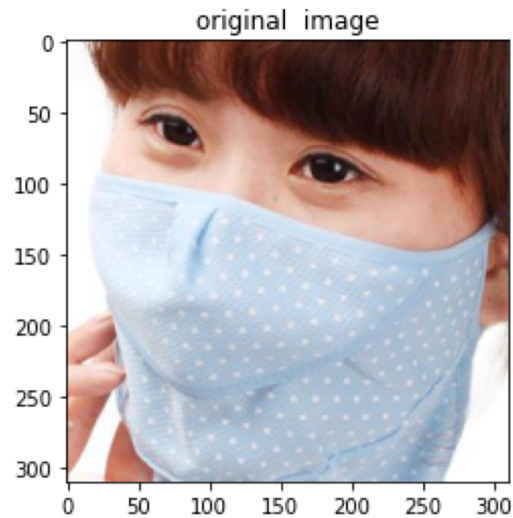

The label of the image changes to unmasked after applying deepfool

Iter --> 2 label --->unmasked_face

However, after applying deepfool to perturb the image we may not see a difference between the two Images with the human eye but, the Figure below shows the difference between The two images. Black means the pixels of two images are similar and green shows where The pixels are different from each other